Air Force Research Laboratory, Brooks Air Force Base, Texas 78235-5118

Animals used in actual research or experimentation involving pain or distress without the use of drugs:

1. A total of one hundred eighteen (118) nonhuman primates, including those animals having multi-year assignments, were trained and their performance maintained by standard operant techniques using negative reinforcement. The use of drugs would have interfered with performance training/maintenance and the identification of any decrement in performance resulting from experimental conditions.
2. A total of thirty (30) pigs, including those animals having multi-year assignments, were trained and their performance maintained by standard operant techniques using negative reinforcement. The use of drugs would have interfered with performance training/maintenance and the identification of any decrement in performance resulting from experimental conditions.

ASSURANCE STATEMENTS

- 1). Professionally acceptable standards governing the care, treatment, and use of animals, including appropriate use of anesthetic, analgesic, and tranquilizing drugs, prior to, during, and following actual research, teaching, testing, surgery, or experimentation were followed by this research facility.
- 2). Each principal investigator has considered alternatives to painful procedures.
- 3). This facility is adhering to the standards and regulations under the Act, and it has required that exceptions to the standards and regulations be specified and explained by the principal investigator and approved by the Institutional Animal Care and Use Committee (IACUC). A summary of all such exceptions is attached to this annual report. In addition to identifying the IACUC-approved exceptions, this summary includes a brief explanation of the exceptions, as well as the species and number of animals affected.
- 4). The attending veterinarian for this research facility has appropriate authority to ensure the provision of adequate veterinary care and to oversee the adequacy of other aspects of animal care and use.
